

JUDGE JAMES IN SHARP CHALLENGE TO GIFFORD PINCHOT

Says Democrats Prefer To See Pinchot Nominated Because He Would Lose in Nov.

CITES WHERE HE STANDS

Wants to Help Business in the State to Get Back on Its Feet

By International News Service

PLYMOUTH, Pa., Mar. 24—Superior Court Judge Arthur H. James cursed into the gubernatorial campaign stream today with a point-by-point platform declaration that promised help for business, labor and relief dependents.

His keynote address for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, carried a sharp challenge to former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, his opponent, whom he termed a "half-converted new dealer." The Democrats would like to see nominated.

He suggested the Democrats prefer to see Pinchot the GOP nominee because they knew that "with the handicaps of his age and his record" he could be defeated in the general election.

"I stand for helping put business in this state back on its feet, keeping it in Pennsylvania, easing its unconscionable burden of taxes and red tape," James declared in his "home-coming" address.

"I stand for increasing employment by helping business, which in the final analysis is the one and only remedy."

Neighbors, miners with whom he worked as a youth, and party supporters comprised his local audience as James denied "the whispered allegation that I am the tool of the vested interests."

"I am no man's tool," he asserted. "I wear no man's badge. I have made no promises of jobs or favors. I have made no deals." His supporters he said are those "who want to see an honest man in command at Harrisburg."

The one-time Welsh breaker boy said he stands for "some form of state regulation" for the stricken anthracite coal industry, if operators fail in one last effort to correct their own ills.

He attacked diversion of motorists' funds for other than highway purposes and threw this question at the liquor issue.

"Do you think that the liquor situation needs improvement?"

"Well, if you don't, I do. And no one knows it better than the liquor people themselves."

In his attack upon Pinchot, the former lieutenant-governor declared:

"My opponent has been in six major engagements in this state and has lost four of them. I have been in four and won them all."

"Someone has said of the primaries that they are the times when the voters of a party choose a man to go hunting in the general elections. We should get a modern gun, not a muzzle-loader, and above all, a gun that shoots straight and hits the target."

Expect Most Motorists To Earn Safe-Driver Reward

The majority of insured motorists in Bristol are expected to earn the Safe Driver Reward of 15 per cent of a year's liability premium, amounting to $5.85 on a standard limits policy, according to a survey made by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Since rates are the same as last year, the rewards will mean an actual reduction in cost of insurance.

If national averages hold in this territory, the survey pointed out, 88 out of 100 insured motorists will make this saving.

"For many years there has been a great need for a direct, individual appeal to the motorist to drive safely, and we believe that the Safe Driver Reward Plan has that appeal," said William Leslie, general manager of the National Bureau.

"Our figures show that we can expect 88 per cent of the motorists insured by our member companies to earn the Safe Driver Reward. We also believe it will stimulate all drivers to be more careful and drive safely, thereby reducing the number who have accidents. With fewer accidents there should be fewer losses. In this event insurance rates can be reduced even more than they are now under the plan and, most important, the frightful annual toll of automobile accidents will be lessened."

The Safe Driver Reward Plan was introduced in this state on March 22 by 32 stock company members of the National Bureau. Since that date all policies newly written or renewed contain the provision that if there is no loss within a year's time, the holder receives a return of 15 per cent of the premium. Safe drivers can have their reward either in cash or apply it as a renewal. The Bureau has announced.

OPPORTUNITY CLASSES PLANNED FOR NEWTOWN

An Aid to Those Who Deviate From the Normal Course; Work is Explained

STARTS NEXT MONDAY

NEWTOWN, Mar. 24—An opportunity class is to be inaugurated in Newtown, the first sessions to be held on Monday, according to an announcement by supervising principal J. William Barbour.

Miss Jane Meredith will be in charge, she formerly being a teacher of the fifth grade here.

In complimenting the local officials and Parent-Teacher Association on the arrangements, at a meeting this week of the P. T. A., Miss Irene Seipt, of The Woods School, Langhorne, had this to say: "The exceptional child is bound to take its place in the structure of society for good or ill and it will have to be given a special training to prepare it to take its place in the world."

Miss Seipt, who spoke on the exceptional child, said that an exceptional child is one who deviates from the normal child, and that it will have to be prepared to take its place in the world. He may be one who is slow to learn or he may be a problem child.

The exceptional child, continued Miss Seipt, always has been and always will be a part of society. In the old times he was termed dumb and frequently he was compelled to wear a dunce cap or he was punished physically, but today that is not the case because the educators are trying to help him.

Every child should be educated to do some part of the world's work. He should be given a chance and he should be judged on his own merits. Children with temper tantrums should be treated as exceptional children. The cause for these outbursts of anger should be determined and after this has been done an effort should be made to remove the cause.

The opportunity classes, said Miss Seipt, are really an opportunity for these children and they should be regarded so by the parents.

The parent-teacher association during the past few months has been attempting to interest the children in taking a pride in their community. Members of the organization have pointed out the wrong in destroying plants and flowers and defacing property. In order to increase this interest the association decided to sponsor a series of contests, for which the winners will be awarded cash prizes. During the next four weeks the senior high school students will give talks once a week and the pupil giving the best talk relative to civic pride will be awarded a prize of $2. The second best will receive an award of $1.

The junior high school students will write essays on the same subject and these prizes will be awarded by the Newtown Exchange Club. Pupils in the lower grades will submit slogans, for which they also will be awarded prizes.

Mrs. William A. Roberts had charge of the meeting which was featured by a display of hand work from all of the classes and the most outstanding was submitted by pupils of the Latin class, of which Miss Naomi Beatty is the teacher. A model of the city of Rome made by William Kruson was considered the best. Lewis Mammel exhibited a replica of an old gallery ship and this also was considered very good.

Musical during the evening was furnished by the high school orchestra. In addition to announcing the beginning of the opportunity class, Mr. Barber said the high school orchestra will conduct exchange programs with the high schools in Bristol and Langhorne.

Burial of Mrs. Cook Occurs in Tullytown

TULLYTOWN, Mar. 24—Funeral services for the late Mrs. Evelyn T. Cook, widow of Oliver M. Cook, were held yesterday afternoon at two o'clock from the funeral home of the H. S. Rue Estate, Bristol. Burial was in Tullytown Cemetery. William Wright, officiated at the service.

Death occurred for Mrs. Cook on Saturday. She was the daughter of the late Marmaduke and Emma Carman. She was in her 69th year. Survivors are three daughters and three brothers.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY

A new board of six governors was elected at a meeting of the Delaware Valley Goat Association held at National Farm School, Doylestown, presided over by Ira J. Mills, Fountainville, president of the association.

The board of governors: Miss Emma Trego Fell, Holicon; Ira J. Mills, Fountainville; H. C. Weber, Telford; D. H. DeChant, Philadelphia; Mrs. H. Buckley and Howard Pyle.

Officials of the Trenton Fair sent the association a letter asking that a goat show be sponsored at the Trenton Fair this year. Further action on this proposition will be taken at a later meeting.

Announcement was made that a bill providing for the appropriation of $7500 to conduct research relating to the breeding, care and raising of goats had been introduced in the New York State Legislature. It was the consensus of opinion that a similar bill should be introduced in Pennsylvania.

An extensive membership campaign is about to open at the Doylestown Country Club, it was announced today by Dr. Frederick Lutz, of Doylestown, chairman of the special membership committee.

At the annual meeting of the club, Charles C. McKinstry was re-elected president. Other officers elected are as follows: Vice-presidents, William R. Mercer and Cyrus Blackfan; secretary-treasurer, Carl Ledy.

The course this year is in excellent condition. Plans were made for the purchase of new machinery. The club now has a membership of 118.

Fine Weather Greeted Dollar-Day Shoppers

Dollar Day, today, was greeted with ideal weather for the shoppers.

During the early morning hours the stores were liberally sprinkled with customers and men and women were carrying their purchases with them.

The Mill Street business men have arranged a fine array of special offerings for the day.

Countess of Carrick Gets Decree

LONDON, Mar. 24—The Countess of Carrick, Philadelphia-born beauty, today was granted a preliminary divorce at Lewes-Sussex Assizes, on grounds of the Earl's misconduct with Miss Phyllis Teague. The 34-year-old nobleman, pal of the Duke of Windsor and scion of an ancient Irish house, did not contest the divorce. They were married in 1930 at Doylestown, Pa., less than one month after she was divorced from Richard Edwards, Philadelphia aviator and World War veteran.

Oil Agreement in Effect

NEW YORK, Mar. 24—An agreement characterized as assuring peace in the oil industry in this city was in effect today between unions representing 60,000 workers and 160 major hotels. The agreement, providing for arbitration of differences between The Hotel Association of New York City and a group of A. F. of L. unions, was declared to be a "momentous step in labor relations."

WOMEN PARTICIPATE IN JOURNEY TO WASHINGTON

Croydon and Edgely Are Represented on Trek of Republican Group

CONGRESSMAN'S GUESTS

Several residents of this area had a thoroughly enjoyable, and instructive day, Tuesday, when they accompanied members of the Lower Merion and Narberth Councils of Republican Women to Washington, D. C.

From Croydon the following made the journey to the nation's capital: Mrs. Charles Friday, Mrs. William Wilkie, Mrs. Leonard Morgan, Mrs. W. Batholoma, and Mrs. Harry G. Frederick.

Edgely was also represented, as were also the communities of Doylestown and Warrington. From Edgely the following made the trek: Mrs. George Garretson, Mrs. James Turner, and Mrs. John Coulthard.

Leaving Philadelphia at 8:30 a. m., with the hostess, Mrs. Helen Greenwood, Cynwyd, the party arrived in the capital at 10:45. Luncheon was partaken of in the station dining room, after which the Supreme Court was visited, the Lincoln Memorial, and the capitol, with ample time spent in the Senate and House of Representatives.

The party wended its way to the famed cherry trees, and was later entertained at tea at the Mayflower Hotel by Montgomery County representative, the Honorable J. William Ditter, and Mrs. Ditter. Mrs. Caroline Huber, Haverford, president of the Council, introduced the Congressman and his wife to the party. Peter Hess, Merion Township, addressed brief remarks to the women.

Dinner was partaken of on the train enroute to Philadelphia.

Dr. Wildman Will Tell Of "Romance of The Bees"

A treat is in store for Travel Club members tomorrow, when Dr. Edward E. Wildman, Philadelphia, delivers a most interesting lecture on "Romance of the Bees."

This address will be illustrated with excellent slides, and a large attendance of club members is expected.

Mrs. Armand V. Morris will be in charge of the program. The hostesses named are Mrs. Horace H. Burton and Mrs. Charles Peet.

Fear French Diplomatic Position

Paris, Mar. 24—Fears spread today regarding the critical French diplomatic position in Europe, particularly regarding Czechoslovakia and Spain. Foreign Minister Paul Boncour assured the foreign affairs committee of the Chamber of Deputies, the government is resolved to live up to France's obligations contained in her military alliance with the Czechs.

At the same time, Premier Blum sought Parliamentary authorization for his campaign to speed up naval rearmament as an answer to Nazi German expansion. Continued successes of the Spanish Insurgents, aided by Italian and German troops also spurred Boncour's efforts.

France is committed to aid Czechoslovakia if that country is invaded. But should Nazis stage a coup in Czechoslovakia by means of an internal uprising, France would not be obligated by treaty to intervene.

MAN AND HIS PLUMAGE

Old-fashioned gentlemen who never have bowed to modern fashion and who have their own opinion of ladies decorated by lipstick, face paint and fingernail coloring have been taken by the scruff of the neck and given a good shaking by no less authorities than the scientists of the Museum of Natural History in New York.

The savants say that it's all the fault of the "stronger sex," it was the male who invented cosmetics, and carried the first compact. And you have guessed the reason for man's taking to these tricks thousands of years ago—it was to attract women.

In the beginning perhaps the caveman merely greased his skin to keep it supple in the dry winds and the harsh weather but it was only a step to fooling around with colored mud and many-lined plant juices and to dabbing them on face and body. And there is evidence that the braves carried compacts containing colored paints with which to touch their decorated skins.

The Africans were broadminded and permitted their women to indulge in similar follies but the Australians were narrow-minded, their women were allowed to paint their faces but were bidden them if they decorated neck or hands or feet.

The beauty business began to boom for both sexes about 5,000 B. C. and before long all the utensils in the vanity cases of today were in common use, even to cuticle knives, rouge applicators, eyebrow tweezers. The queens of Egypt displayed red fingernails and toenails 3,000 years ago.

POCKETLESS SUITS

Tailors for men's clothes are reported to be yielding to the "silhouette" influence in their new designs. Wrinkles and creases no longer worry the suit-makers as much as the "filing cabinets" men make out of their pockets. It is these that spoil the streamline silhouettes.

The tailors threaten that, unless men reform, they will put no inside pockets in well-tailored suits and no hip pockets in the trousers. Were this threat, which is now a mere cloud on the horizon, to materialize it would lead to excessive dying by men anxious to secure the silhouette, but unwilling to pay the price of fewer pockets.

Such a sissifying reform, like the addition of colors to men's clothes has a devious purpose behind it. Changes in style hatched in the tailors' shops would date the time a suit was bought, and no suit would be allowed to do its full duty.

Lost-and-found departments as well as the savings banks may be backing the change, for the treasures which formerly found a refuge in the wide pocket berths of old suits would have to look for new homes. But man, deprived of pockets and threatened with color, may turn on his tormentors and find revenge in espousal of nudism.

One that Washington seems to have overlooked is putting the jobless millions to work in imaginary CCC camps.

We don't mind looking reality in the face on the cover of a candid camera magazine, but must it enlarge the pores?

It is easy to sell a story or article to an English magazine. Just write one that reveals what awful heathen Americans are.

Plan International Route Tapping Fertile Territories in Northwest

Road Would Link Seattle and Fairbanks

By ARTHUR DUNCAN

International Illustrated News Service SEATTLE, Wash. — Current plans for an international highway from Seattle, Wash., to Fairbanks, Alaska, promise to open up vast tracts of rich territory in British Columbia and the Yukon which have hitherto been unproductive because of transportation difficulties.

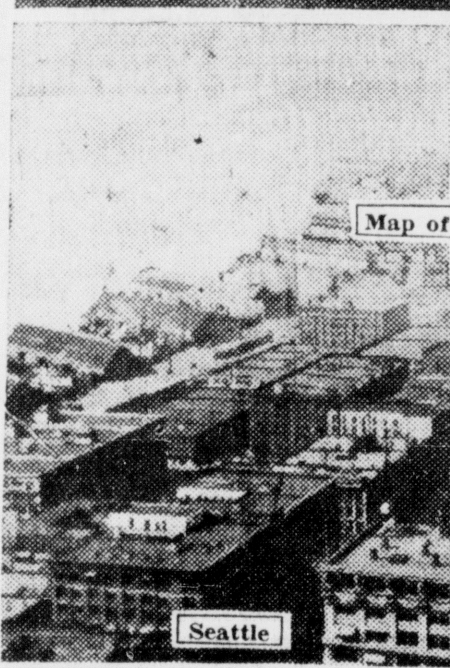

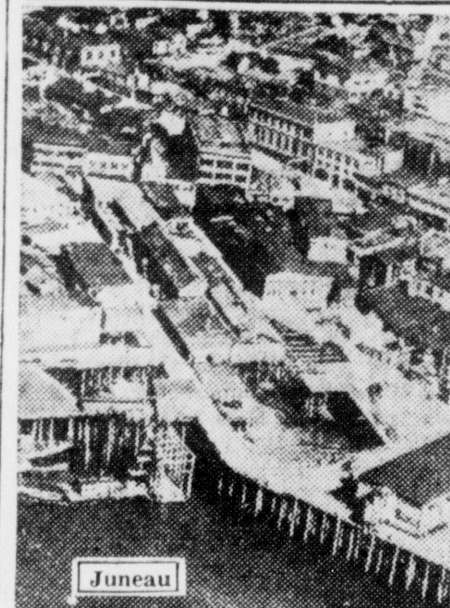

Alaskans are naturally most enthusiastic about the road and are making a concerted effort to make it an actuality at the earliest possible date. First step toward such an objective would be negotiation of a treaty with Canada which would provide a working agreement between the two nations as regards sharing of costs and right-of-way privileges. Progress has already been made along this line and a tentative route charted by engineers.

Rich Districts Tapped

Sponsors of the plan point to the economic advantages attendant on opening a road which would tap the rich agricultural and mining lands, stimulate tourist travel and make available the rich timber resources of the country along the way. At the present time there is no overland route from Alaska to the outside world. It is because of Alaska's dependence on the coastal steamers and packet service that those in the northernmost U. S. possession are especially anxious to make the International highway a reality.

As now proposed, the road would have Seattle as its southern terminal, running from there almost due north through Vancouver, B. C., thence in an approximately straight line to Prince George, following the present Caribou Trail which is an improved road now passable at nearly all times of year.

At Prince George the highway would swing westward and north to White Horse. Branch roads from the main route would tap such important points as

Map of route

Prince Rupert, Wrangell and Juneau, capital of Alaska.

Fairbanks Northern Terminal

Construction of the new road would begin about 75 miles north of Prince George where the Caribou Trail ends and swing up in a north by northwest direction through White Horse to Dawson and Fairbanks. This section would be entirely new, and, while it would follow established trails, considerable work would be necessary and numerous bridges needed to span the rough terrain.

There is at present existent a road from Dawson down to the coast, ending at Seward. By linking this route to the International highway, a modern transportation artery would be provided which would run all the way from the central Alaskan coast at Seward past Matanuska, site of the federal colonization project, to Fairbanks and thence southward to Seattle. Costs have not as yet been accurately computed, but the obvious and considerable advantages to be realized in opening up the rich farming country and making available the natural resources of the country adjacent to the proposed route provide strong arguments in favor of the plan.

"Love I Dare Not" by ALLENE CORLISS

SYNOPSIS

Alec Graham, 36, is a successful playwright. Gina Warren, still lovely at 31, has equalled his success in her own field, portrait painting. In the late summer, Gina returns to New York after three months in Ohio and meets Alec, by appointment, at a publisher's tea. The party is boring, so they decide to slip away for a long chat.

CHAPTER II

They went to a quiet place around the corner and fell at once into the easy, desultory conversation of old friends. Gina said, linking slim, talented fingers about the stem of her cocktail glass, "What do you hear from Tommy? Is he coming home soon?"

Tommy was Alec's young nephew. Twelve years before, Alec's sister's husband had died in Kobe, Japan, and she had come back to America with her young son. At that time, Tommy had been a shy, slender boy not quite twelve years old. Now, three years after graduating from Yale, he was doing well at a mining engineer's job in South America.

Alec said, "Tommy's contract is up this month. There's a chance he may not renew it."

"In that case, he would be coming home, I suppose," Gina knew that Alec missed Tommy more than he ever admitted, that, with the possible exception of herself, he was by far the most important person in Alec's life.

Alec nodded. "Yes, but I don't imagine he will. And even if he did, it would be only for a month or two. Then he'd get another job and go tearing off to the ends of the world, again. I reconcile myself," he added quietly, "to never seeing much of him any more when I discovered he had his heart set on being a mining engineer."

"All the same," said Gina, "I wish he would come back, even if it were only for a month or two." And she thought, "He would if he knew how much it would mean to Alec . . . if he guessed how lonely he gets for him."

She said aloud, "Did you have a good summer? Did you stay in town or take that house on Long Island?"

"I stayed in town, but I didn't have a particularly good summer. I finished the play in July and I missed you like the very devil all through August. New York was unbelievably dull."

It had been. With Gina in Ohio the summer had dragged interminably, and some time during her absence he had come to see himself, abruptly and uncompromisingly, as a man no longer quite young, who had never really struck his roots deeply anywhere, who had no pattern for living or, if he had one, then so trivial and casual a one that it was not worth considering seriously.

He had been born on an Iowa farm and he had chosen to be a New York playwright. But all his life he had been more concerned with the making of money than the writing of plays. And now he had plenty of money and not much else. Even his relationship with Gina had become so casual that at the end of a long separation he neglected to make a definite dinner engagement with her, taking it for granted she would be free to dine with him.

Looking at her now, in that expensive suit she had undoubtedly chosen hurriedly and carelessly, in that hat which no woman, even as beautiful a person as Gina, could survive, he wondered what she had made of her life and if, like him, she ever regretted those early unfilled plans for marriage, the life they might have shared. He thought that, being a woman and emotionally dependent, she probably had. Yet her life had been full and satis-

I hadn't realized until you were actually gone how much I depended on you. Then it occurred to me that you were the one person who ever really listened to anything I said, who cared a sweet little damn about anything I really did. . . .

"Alec!" Gina's eyes were soft with mirth. "You are in a state. You must have had a wretched summer, darling, to talk that way. Well, my own wasn't any too good. Visiting your relatives is apt to be a bit depressing. Speaking of relatives," she added swiftly, "I have one I want to talk to you about."

"Don't tell me you brought one back with you from Ohio?"

"No. But I have one descending upon me any day now from Portland, Maine. Another branch of the fying. More than anyone he knew, she seemed to be happy and content. She was invariably tired, rushed, and it some times seemed to him she lived her life in a perpetual state of confusion; yet whenever you were with her, she was gay and interested and vital, and you forgot that when you first saw her you had thought that she looked tired and a little old and that, without wanting to, you had somehow felt sorry for her.

She smiled at him. "If New York was so dull, why didn't you get out of town, then?"

"Because any place I might have got to would have been even duller."

Be Ad-vised Before You Buy

If a competent expert could pass on each purchase you make, you would be sure of getting full value for every dollar you spend. But experts are rare, and even then are seldom trained to know more than one type of merchandise. What an imposing retinue of these specialists you would need to pass judgment on your routine purchases of gasoline and gloves, hammocks and hosiery, linen and linoleum!

But you can get competent and honest counsel on almost everything you buy without ever meeting an expert. How? By being ad-vised in advance by the advertising pages of this newspaper.

Here you will find all kinds of reputable merchants and manufacturers telling you about their best bargains, and inviting comparisons. In a matter of minutes, you will find more bona fide bargains in print than you would discover on the counters of all the stores you could visit in a six-day shopping trek.

Read these advertising pages regularly for just one week, and then you'll know first-hand that it pays to be ad-vised before you buy. Your money will stretch further, and your purchases be more satisfactory.

TIMELY RECIPES

You Will Want to Try!

TIMELY RECIPES—EASY TO TRY AND EAT

Orange Jelly and Thick Marmalade

Two unpeeled thin-skinned oranges and one unpeeled lemon. Slice the fruit very thin. Measure and for each cup allow four cups of water. Bring to a boil and boil thirty minutes.

For Jelly: Strain off four cups of clear juice. Bring this juice to a boil. Add three-fourths cup sugar for each cup juice. Boil hard until it gives the jelly test of thick drops from the side of the spoon, or until it congeals on a chilled dish. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin when cold.

For Marmalade: Take remaining fruit and liquid, add three-fourths cup sugar for each cup and proceed as when making jelly. This yields a thick marmalade, solid with orange peel and is recommended for cooking purposes where the marmalade is used for flavor, as well as on toast or crackers. If no marmalade is desired, strain off all the clear juice for jelly after the first boiling. This small quantity of fruit usually yields about four glasses jelly and two of marmalade.

Candied Orange Peel

Remove peel in quarters from three oranges. Cover with water to which one teaspoon salt has been added. Boil 30 minutes. Drain. Boil in fresh water until tender, about one-half hour longer. Drain. Bring one cup sugar and one-half cup water to boil. Add peel. Boil gently until syrup is nearly absorbed. Drain and roll in sugar. Cut in strips for confection, or cut into bits for cooking.

Dip part of this candied peel in melted chocolate. For colored peel, add red or green vegetable coloring to the syrup, or roll the strips in colored sugar.

Braised Pork Chops

An expert on cooking meats declares that pork chops are best when cooked by braising. The slow cooking brings out the delicious flavor and makes them entirely digestible. Crisp March days are just the time for more substantial meat dishes.

Dredge the pork chops in flour, and brown in hot shortening. The flour coating aids the browning. When the chops are browned, they are seasoned, a very small amount of liquid is added and they are cooked very slowly until done. Chops cut one inch thick require 30 to 40 minutes. A small onion may be diced in the hot shortening for added flavor.

If one-dish meals are popular, brown the pork chops and place them on top of a large casserole of scalloped tomatoes for the rest of the cooking time. The meat flavors the potatoes as they are cooking. Pork chops also may be cooked with rice or almost any vegetable casserole.

Pecan Sticks

Here is a novelty in hot breads that belongs on the special list: Two cups flour; two teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon salt; four tablespoons shortening; one cup chopped pecans; melted butter; enough milk to form a soft dough. (This quantity should yield two dozen sticks.)

Sift dry ingredients, work in the shortening. Add enough milk to form soft dough. Roll out to one-half inch thickness, brush with one tablespoon of butter, which has been melted. Cut dough in half. Spread half with chopped nuts, top with the other half and brush again with melted butter. Cut into oblong strips. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees F.

BANANAS ANSWER DESSERT PROBLEM

Dessert often is the problem child of the menu. The special luncheon or dinner may demand a "not-too-rich" dessert, yet the crowning glory of the meal should fluff, and have character, too.

These two recipes, featuring the nourishing banana, were planned with just such a need in mind:

Banana Chiffon Pie

One and one-half teaspoons granulated gelatin, two tablespoons cold water; three-fourths cup mashed, fully ripe banana (two to three bananas); one tablespoon lemon juice; one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind; one-eighth teaspoon grated orange rind; three tablespoons sugar; two egg yolks, slightly beaten; one-eighth teaspoon salt; two egg whites; two tablespoons sugar; one eight-inch pie shell (baked pastry or cornflakes, wafer or cracker crumbs).

Mix gelatin with water. Mix banana and lemon juice; add lemon and orange rind, three tablespoons sugar, egg yolks and salt. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until the consistency of soft custard. Remove from heat.

Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, then add two tablespoons sugar gradually, while continuing to beat. Fold in banana mixture. Fill pie shell, this quantity making one eight-inch pie. This dessert may be prepared early in the day, or even the previous day and stored in the refrigerator, as it must be kept in a cool place to stiffen. Try The Courier classified way. Spend 25c and get dollars in return.

U. S. Veterans' Hospital Finds Successful RHEUMATISM Treatment!

Supply of Colloidal Sulphur Rushed Here as Sufferers See New Hope in Scientific Discovery

New hope for sufferers from rheumatism and arthritis pain is seen today as a result of successful tests reported by the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, New York, in over 200 cases, by the use of colloidal sulphur.

This form of sulphur goes into the blood 1,000 times faster than ordinary sulphur and rushes to every joint and muscle where it acts like millions of tiny magnets in drawing out pains, swellings, stiffness. Formerly requiring painful, expensive injections, this new colloidal sulphur treatment may at last be obtained in nice, easy-to-take tablets, called Q-LOID. This is a very expensive medicine, but considering results experienced, the $5 it costs for a full 30 day supply is only 10c per day and it is fully guaranteed! Act at once, supply limited. ## The Great Game of Politics sabotage; Dr. Morgan could not accuse the President to his face of being prejudiced and unfair. Nor could he tell him that he had double-crossed him. Those are things you cannot say to a President.

NEVERTHELESS, it has been stated by responsible people—and not denied—that Dr. Morgan, now denounced and dismissed, wanted to resign more than a year ago, and so informed the President; that the President persuaded him not to resign; that Dr. Morgan got from the President the distinct impression that, in the controversy between him and his colleagues, the President sided with him and did not intend to reappoint Mr. Lillenthal. The angry mood in which he dealt with Dr. Morgan recently may easily have been due to Mr. Roosevelt's inner consciousness that Dr. Morgan had a right to feel badly treated by him. In any event, the report of the hearings shows that from the first, though Dr. Morgan's refusal to submit was courteous and respectful, the President's temper toward him was bitter.

IT VIVIDLY RECALLED the Humphrey incident of 1933. In many ways the Humphrey incident and the Morgan incident are so alike as to be almost identical. The late Mr. Humphrey, as a member of the Federal Trade Commission, incurred the wrath of the President because his mind did not go along with his. Mr. Roosevelt demanded his resignation and when it was refused removed him. A year later the Supreme Court unanimously told him he had exceeded his authority. There is reason to think that this rankled more deeply with Mr. Roosevelt than anything that happened to him in his first term. It was the real cause of his hostility toward the court. It was the inspiration for that provision in the original reorganization bill which would have given him control over all the quasi-judicial boards. It was the reason he hated Dr. Morgan and his colleagues before him. Court or no court, law or no law, apparently he is unwilling to admit that he has not the right to make the heads of the members of these boards and of all other agencies of the Government march with his own.

AFTER MANY MONTHS, convinced that the President definitely had gone over to the Lillenthal side, Dr. Morgan made his charges public and asked a Congressional investigation. That made Mr. Roosevelt very angry. Indeed, despite the assertion that he does not object to a Congressional inquiry, the general effect of the White House hearings has been to make obtaining one a little more difficult and to handicap Dr. Morgan with an adverse White House verdict before he can present his case. So far as he could, the President snubbed Dr. Morgan. So far as he could, he exhibited him as an obstinate man who would not cooperate with his colleagues. So far as he could, he has made his charges seem unfounded because he would not submit his data to a President clearly committed to sustaining the other side. It seemed an effort to discredit Dr. Morgan before he could present his facts to an unbiased tribunal or at least one where there would be a minority interested and determined to bring out all the facts.

CONSIDERING the odds against him, Dr. Morgan came out of the White House hearings relatively little damaged. His flag still flies and his refusal to yield under such heavy pressure has aroused admiration and sympathy throughout the country. In the end he seems bound to get his Congressional investigation. The friends of TVA as well as its foes agree about that. He cannot stop it. But he has done his best to affect it. However, the public interest has now reached a point where it seems likely any investigation, with no matter what kind of a chairman, will have to go to the bottom. TVA is a gigantic governmental experiment, immensely costly, its potentialities are also vast and the prestige for expansion is steady and persistent. Yet the great bulk of the people are in ignorance as to its operation, know little about what has been done, how or why. In view of the light in the management and the Morgan charges, clearly the public is entitled to fight. If there is any ray of getting light other than a Congressional investigation, it has not been suggested.

FOUR-IN-ONE COOKER INVITES INSPECTION

The busy homemaker must spend so much time on her actual food buying that she has scant opportunity for browsing around in the store space devoted to new equipment designed to help her in preparing that carefully chosen food.

That is one reason why your friendly lecturer often includes a tip on interesting articles discovered in the shops.

Bright and light as a Spring day, with even more uses, is a 1938 aluminum masterpiece, which was scientifically designed to fill the duties of four utensils in one.

The compact cooker has an inside two-quart pan and an outside five-quart pot, meaning that the combination may be used as a steam-cooker, pot-roaster, cereal cooker and as a general utility pot. More wholesome cereals, minus a top crust, are assured by the utensil, since it cooks with live steam. That moist steam also is an important point in reheating left-overs.

Troubled by water-soaked vegetables? A demonstrator points out that this cookery is designed to steam vegetables over one and one-half quarts of water, with no water actually added to the vegetables. Since the flavors do not mix by this method, any number of vegetables may be steamed at one time. Dried fruits, such as peaches, apricots and prunes succumb to the same gentle process.

Of course the all-around five-quart pot is ready for everything from stew with fluffy dumplings to soups, chowder and preserving. As a pot roaster, this cooker is self-basting and cooks meat in its own juices. Home economists experts agree that the cooker saves time, fuel, flavors and food values.

Foresee Danzig as Scene of Next Big Drama

London, Mar. 24.—Reports that Danzig may be the scene of Europe's next major drama flooded London today.

The London Daily Mail reported from Warsaw that it had learned 10,000 Nazi storm troopers in the free city of Danzig were ordered by Berlin to remain close to their barracks in readiness for some action not yet announced.

The Daily Mail also reported the Danzig Nazis plan to hold a plebiscite on the question of the union between Germany and the free city.

The London Daily Mirror reported a new "reign of terror" in Danzig, with Jews fleeing as a result of the orders to the Nazi storm troopers there.

Meanwhile, the London Daily Express reported from Vienna that it learned through "independent sources" 200,000 German troops, mostly Bavarians who marched into Austria at the time of that country's annexation by Germany, were now concentrated along 250 miles of the Czechoslovakia frontier.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Way of Living Changed Rapidly (Prepared for The Courier by F. A. Pitkin, Executive Director, Pennsylvania State Planning Board)

The swift change in the American way of living is strikingly pictured in statistics compiled for the National Resources Committee. In 1870, 52.8 per cent of American workers gainfully employed were in agriculture while in 1930 the percentage had fallen to 21.3. Starting as a wilderness on the outskirts of civilization, this country took the leap from primitive agriculturalism to mature urbanism in little more than a single century. No such sudden transformation both in the way of living and the ways of making a living has occurred in the Old World. Little wonder that we are a bit bewildered!

The degree of concentration of a large part of the urban population into a few great metropolitan areas is indicated by the fact that the 96 leading metropolitan centers of the United States, occupying only 1.2 per cent of the land area of the nation, contained in 1930 nearly 45 per cent of its total population and 68 per cent of its urban inhabitants.

But the city is not merely the prevailing place of residence, it is also the workshop of American civilization. In 1929 there were concentrated in 155 counties, containing the larger industrial cities, 64.7 per cent of all the industrial establishments, 74 per cent of all industrial wage earners, 80.7 per cent of all salaried officers and employees. Moreover, 78.8 per cent of all wages and 82.9 per cent of all salaries in the country were paid in these counties. The value of the products these establishments produced was 79 per cent of the country's total. They had installed 64.2 per cent of the total horsepower classed as "prime mover" and 72.5 per cent of the electric motors. They are credited with 80.2 per cent of all the value added to products by manufacturing.

Eighty-three per cent of all of the wholesale trade in the United States was carried on in 127 counties, and the counties containing the 11 largest cities alone accounted for over one-half of the total, while the 93 cities over 100,000 reported over three-fourths of the total. Not only are the cities, and especially the great cities, the industrial workshops of the nation that produce the bulk of its manufactured products and employ and support the majority of its working population, but they are also the managerial, service, and commercial distributing centers.

Seventy-three per cent of all railway traffic terminates in urban areas; the single metropolis of New York contains over 500 freight stations within a radius of 35 miles of the city. Half of all railroad passengers either begin or end their journeys in 12 metropolitan cities. The urban areas make the most use of aviation, of rapid transit, of telephones, and the telegraph. Nearly 40 per cent of all the Homemakers frequently ask how often an electric-driven sewing machine should be oiled. An engineer, who is an authority on the subject, states that it should be oiled every four or five hours that the machine is used. He says:

"Oil the motor only as recommended by the maker or dealer. Do not attempt to clean the motor, or run it when there is gasoline in it, or on it.

To do so may cause fire and ruin the motor."

This is an ideal season for the housewife to take inventory of her household equipment, from linens to cooking utensils. A real incentive to thrifty March shoppers is the special value in new aluminum ware, which leading department and hardware stores have been featuring through February and March.

CELTICS ENTER FINALS BY WIN OVER SOUTHAMPTON

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 24—The Bristol Celtics entered the finals of the independent Bucks-Montgomery tournament last night by scoring a 43-33 triumph over the Southampton Reds. By virtue of its triumph the Celtic team earned the right to play the County championship. This game will be played in the Doylestown Armory Langhorne Red Raiders for the Bucks next Tuesday night.

The Celts had to struggle to win the game from the "Hamples," who were threatening to eliminate the Bristolians throughout. Led by Claude Lodge, former Ursinus College star, the Southampton five was pressing all the way. Barlow also did some nice shooting for the losers, while "Jimmy" Robinson did fine work defensively.

For Vito Delia's boys, Wilbur VanLenten, former Bristol High School star, stood out in scoring honors. VanLenten hit the cords for eight double-deckers and three fouls to chalk up nineteen points. Joe Gallagher had eleven points to his credit while Tommy Proffy starred on the defense.

It will be interesting to see the battle between the centers next Tuesday with VanLenten jumping against Charlie Hughes, who formerly played with the Celtics but joined the Langhorne Raiders at the beginning of this tournament.

BAER IS BACK ON BIG TIME FIGHTERS' RATING

By Lawton Carver

(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Mar. 24—(INS)—As a drawing card, Max Baer must be rated no worse than second on the current list of heavyweights and the only one who tops him, Joe Louis, has the advantage of being the champion, which gives the latter an edge in the ballyhoo right from the start.

As a fighter, Max can't be placed farther back than third, behind Louis and Max Schmeling, and he may prove his right to a place above them during his present comeback campaign, although that seems unlikely.

However, for a gent who has been around a decade, who made one of the most miserable showings in the history of boxing when he lost the championship to Jim Braddock and who was knocked out by Louis and beaten by Tommy Farr in England he seems to be doing all right.

He captivated New York fans, officials and a hostile press in beating Farr in their return match here, and finally convinced one and all that the promised change for the better has taken firm hold. Everybody is looking forward to another appearance by him here. The welcome sign, in great big letters, has been set up permanently for him—or until such time as he forgets he has reformed.

It will add up into possibly the biggest gate since the Dempsey era, with Baer meeting the winner of the June bout between Louis and Schmeling. The September show is certain to do million dollars worth of business, according to Promoter Mike Jacobs, and may go well beyond that figure.

Whether Baer can make a comeback so complete that he will be the first ex-champion ever to regain his title is a moot point. He belted Schmeling out but was belted out by Louis, and from that it would seem that his chances depend to great extent upon whether Louis or Schmeling wins in June.

Some hold that he can do it. In Schmeling all over again, but maintain that Louis will knock him kicking every time they meet. It is a matter of boxing styles, you are told. However, so many other things enter into a fist fight that the bearing one style has on another often is negligible, and it may be that in spite of everything Pappa Baer, as he now chooses to call himself, will wind up perpetrating a fairy story second only to that one made famous by the doughty Mr. James J. Braddock.

There would be a slight difference in that Braddock's was built on the "Cinderella Man rags-to-riches theme" while Pappa Baer's would be one of those "For Wife and Little Ones" things. Pappa Baer has been hollering ever since Max Jr. was born a couple of months ago that he—meaning Pappa Baer, of course—was fixing to whip all the heavyweights in sight and prove to Junior that his old man is the No. 1 guy in the world.

There is nothing wrong with the idea if it will work. Even if it doesn't, it's a good living, what with that million dollar gate there for the taking.

Cards' Clouting Champ

By BURNLEY

Despite recent resiliency tests which seemed to prove that the new National League pellet is as lively as ever, experts think the changed ball will hurt a lot of players' batting averages.

Whether or not the new horsehide is less lively than before, the fact remains that the raised seams and thicker cover will enable the hurlers to put more "dip-ay-doo" on the sphere.

Curve-ball experts, sinker-ball wizards and knuckle-ball masters are rejoicing over the new pill. The hitters may be gnashing their teeth after the campaign starts.

One of the interesting questions raised by the new ball is whether or not it will affect Joe Medwick's bid for "batting greatness."

Ducky Wucky monopolized the mauling honors in 1937, winning just about every slugging title in sight.

He was the batting champion, drove in more runs and scored more than any other player, led in total hits and total bases, made the most two-baggers and tied for the home run championship.

Such an expert judge of hitting form as Paul Warner rates Medwick as the equal of the immortal Honus as a right-handed batter. Whether the clouting cardinal will ever approach the Rajah's amazing consistency over a period of years remains to be seen.

Joe is confident that he will hammer the new horsehide as relentlessly as the old. The pitchers hope otherwise.

Mexicans To Defend Expropriations

Mexico City, Mar. 24—The people of Mexico will defend President Lazaro Cardenas' expropriation program with their lives.

That was the cry, uttered by the President himself, that rang through the country today following a series of demonstrations all over Mexico in support of Cardenas' decree taking over the properties of 17 American and British oil companies.

Cardenas told a crowd of 100,000 persons at Zocalo that the nation must be ready to make sacrifices to indemnify the oil companies, whose expropriation properties were valued at $1,000,000. "Our country must be respected," said Cardenas. He added: "The people are ready not only to make an economic contribution, but even to offer their lives if necessary."

Two of the four mothers who will share in the $500,000 bequest left by Vance Millar, eccentric Toronto lawyer, to the Toronto mother bearing the most children in a 10-year period ending Oct. 31, 1936, are Mrs. John Nagle and Mrs. Annie Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Nagle are shown, top, with their 12 children, nine of whom were ruled "eligible" by court decree, and Mrs. Smith appears below with six of her children.

MANY OF HOLLYWOOD'S STARS TRANSCONTINENTAL COMMUTERS

Cupid Pilots Dozens of Actors and Actresses from Coast to Coast for Brief Romantic Interludes With Their Mates

NEW YORK, Mar. 24—When the motion picture magnates decided some years ago to move their studios from the pastures surrounding Manhattan to Hollywood, they did not consider that this would begin a transcontinental commuters' club with Cupid as patron saint.

Today that club is flourishing as dozens of actors and actresses and their respective mates fly back and forth across the continent several times a year in order to keep their professional and domestic careers at an even balance.

Leader of the club is a bachelor (?) Orchestra Leader Andre Kostelanetz, who won a silver cup as the nation's No. 1 air traveler in 1936, when he flew 126,000 miles back and forth between Hollywood and New York to visit Lily Pons, the opera singer. Numerous have been the rumors that Kostelanetz and Miss Pons, who dislikes being called mademoiselle, are married or about to be.

Harriet Hilliard, blonde singer, recently and definitely quit the club when she gave up (temporarily, at least) her flourishing movie career because it separated her so much from her orchestra leading husband, Ozzie Nelson, who usually is engaged on Broadway.

Irene Dunne, the movie star, and her New York dentist husband, Dr. Francis Griffin, make several transcontinental flights annually to be with one another.

Jean Dixon, wise cracking stage and screen star, and her financier husband, Edward S. Ely, commute regularly between Hollywood lots, Ely's New York office and their rural home in Massachusetts.

Clifford Odets, the playwright author of "Golden Boy," has become an active member of this nation-wide commuters club since he wedded Luise Rainer, feminine star of "The Good Earth" and other movies. Odets does have the consolation that as soon as he has launched one of his new plays on Broadway he can spend several months with his wife writing scenarios in Hollywood.

When Frances Farmer came to Broadway recently to play the leading role in "Golden Boy," she did not leave her actor husband, Lief Erickson, lingering long in the Hollywood lots. He flew East a few weeks later and accepted a role, one extremely minor to the strong parts he plays in such pictures as he did with Greta Garbo in "Conquest," in the same production in order to stay East with his wife.

Erin O'Brien-Moore, now playing the lead in the Broadway production of John Steinbeck's "Tortilla Flat," has been a constant air commuter between the East and West Coasts since she married Mark Barron, Associated Press critic. Even a crackup in an airliner in Pittsburgh when she was flying West to play the role of Nana in the film, "The Life of Emile Zola," did not dissuade her from her frequent air commuting.

About the only stage-movie couple who are rarely separated in their journeys are the Theatre Guild stars, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. It is seldom that they make movies, but they also include a clause in all their contracts which guarantees that they are never to be separated.

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

BRISTOL

Based on the unusual novel by Russell Thorndyke, which sold more than a million copies, the new George Arliss starring vehicle, "Dr. Syn," which comes today to the Bristol Theatre through Gaumont release, presents the distinguished character actor with one of the most interesting roles in his career.

Mr. Arliss plays the title role, as the ex-pirate who turned parson, and who led his parishioners on their smuggling expeditions, preaching by day, and evading the revenue men by night. Largely an action picture, the story can boast, too, of a fresh and beautiful love theme, carried in the film by John Loder and 19-year-old Margaret Lockwood, who is the latest Gaumont "find."

Many of the sequences were filmed on the famous Romney Marshes, which are as impenetrable in some spots as the African jungle. Two months were spent on location by the Gaumont unit, filming exterior background scenes and action sequences. Unusual is the fact that only four days of delay were chalked up to the weather, and the mists which ordinarily bar this interesting region to the filmmakers.

GRAND

Joan Bennett and Henry Fonda come to the Grand Theatre today in Walter Wanger's "I Met My Love"

Again," a thrilling romantic drama based on Allene Corliss' novel, "Summer Lightning."

Wanger has lined up a great supporting cast for the stars, headed by Dame May Whitty, Alan Marshal, Louise Platt, Alan Baxter and Tim Holt.

The story casts Joan as a headstrong maiden of the jazz and flapper era of 1927, and Fonda as the studious New Englander to whom she is engaged.

The romantic girl meets adventure in the person of handsome Alan Marshal, playing an irresponsible, Bohemian writer. Joan is swept off her feet by this worldly fellow and the pair elope to New York.

Joan finds their life in the Bohemian Colony of Paris very disillusioning, particularly when even the birth of their daughter fails to awaken her husband to his responsibilities. However, she is too proud to return to Vermont to face her kindly Aunt William and the boy she jilted, until Marshal is killed in a duel fought over the merits of a worthless painting.
